

You don't respect Arizona: Dow Chemical divests from Rep. Tim Walberg

When I first moved to Arizona, in 2011, I spent my weekends exploring the local landscape, which if you've ever been to Arizona, anywhere in Arizona, is nothing short of spectacular. But also, where I lived in the greater Phoenix area, was very dry, super-hot, and always dangerous.

For example, one Saturday, I took my dog out to the Tonto National Forest (not a 'forest' in the Michigan sense, as there are no trees, only Saguaro Cactus, but that's what NPS called it). She was allowed to go off leash in the back trails, and so I plugged in my headphones to iPod nano and we went on a run. The trail was rugged, rocky, and isolated. Or so I thought. Coming back towards trailhead, I suddenly heard a faint whizzing sound by my head; I then saw small tufts of sand exploding near my feet. I was being shot at. I quickly ripped out my earbuds and starting yelling and waving: 'Don't shoot me! Don't shoot my dog!' Roxanne was a rescue dog but she had strong running and herding traits. She had taken off and was pacing ahead of me among the rocks. They could shoot her accidentally.

I yelled again, 'Stop shooting'; finally, I saw an older man and his wife come out behind a large out cropping of rocks; they were just innocently shooting target practice – just enjoying their guns in an open, and allowed-to-discharge space.

They were very apologetic and stopped immediately once they saw both me and Roxanne.

But what I am trying to tell you is that this is what AZ is like – guns fucking everywhere. Fully legal, as shooting at rocks way out in the deadlands is completely okay, acceptable, and legal.

Here's what AZ is also like: in order to get a DRIVER' S License, you have to provide your Birth Certificate or U.S. Passport + SSN card + proof of employment, residency, lease, utility bill, etc. In other words, you have to prove that you are a U.S. citizen before you can get an AZ DL.

And if you want to vote: You have to show your AZ DL + U.S. Passport or Birth Certificate.

By contrast, in Michigan, if you wanna get an DL, you just go to the Secretary of State and ask for one, and when they ask you if you also want to vote (in same exchange) and you say yes, and then you are a driver and voter.

Saginaw and Bay City News

Dow Chemical stops political donations to those who voted against certifying presidential election

Updated Jan 11, 2021; Posted Jan 11, 2021

By Riley Murdock | rmurdock@mlive.com

MIDLAND, MI - The Dow Chemical Co. will not make any more donations to members of Congress who voted against certifying the results of the 2020 presidential election, potentially affecting three Michigan Republicans.

U.S. Rep. Lisa McClain, R-Bruce Twp., U.S. Reps. Jack Bergman, R-Watersmeet, and Tim Walberg, R-Tipton, objected to Electoral College votes in two states as part of an effort to challenge the presidential election outcome.

So, Tim Walberg: Have you ever lived in AZ? Do you actually know how extremely law abiding (and gun toting) this state is? And thus, when they extended the mail-in ballot and early voting period by two weeks in October 2020, it was approved by the AZ state house (which is Republican), and was not in any way unlawful or rigged.

The vote was NOT stolen. Your guy just lost. And he was a poor loser, a poor sport, and a cry baby about it. He and you fomented the riot that became the insurrection that attacked the U.S. Capital on Jan. 6, 2021. And now, Dow Chemical wants no part of you. You need to go.

<https://www.mlive.com/news/saginaw-bay-city/2021/01/dow-chemical-stops-political-donations-to-those-who-voted-against-certifying-presidential-election.html>